

Once, in the town of Silene, next to the waterhole from which people get water, a powerful dragon settled in.

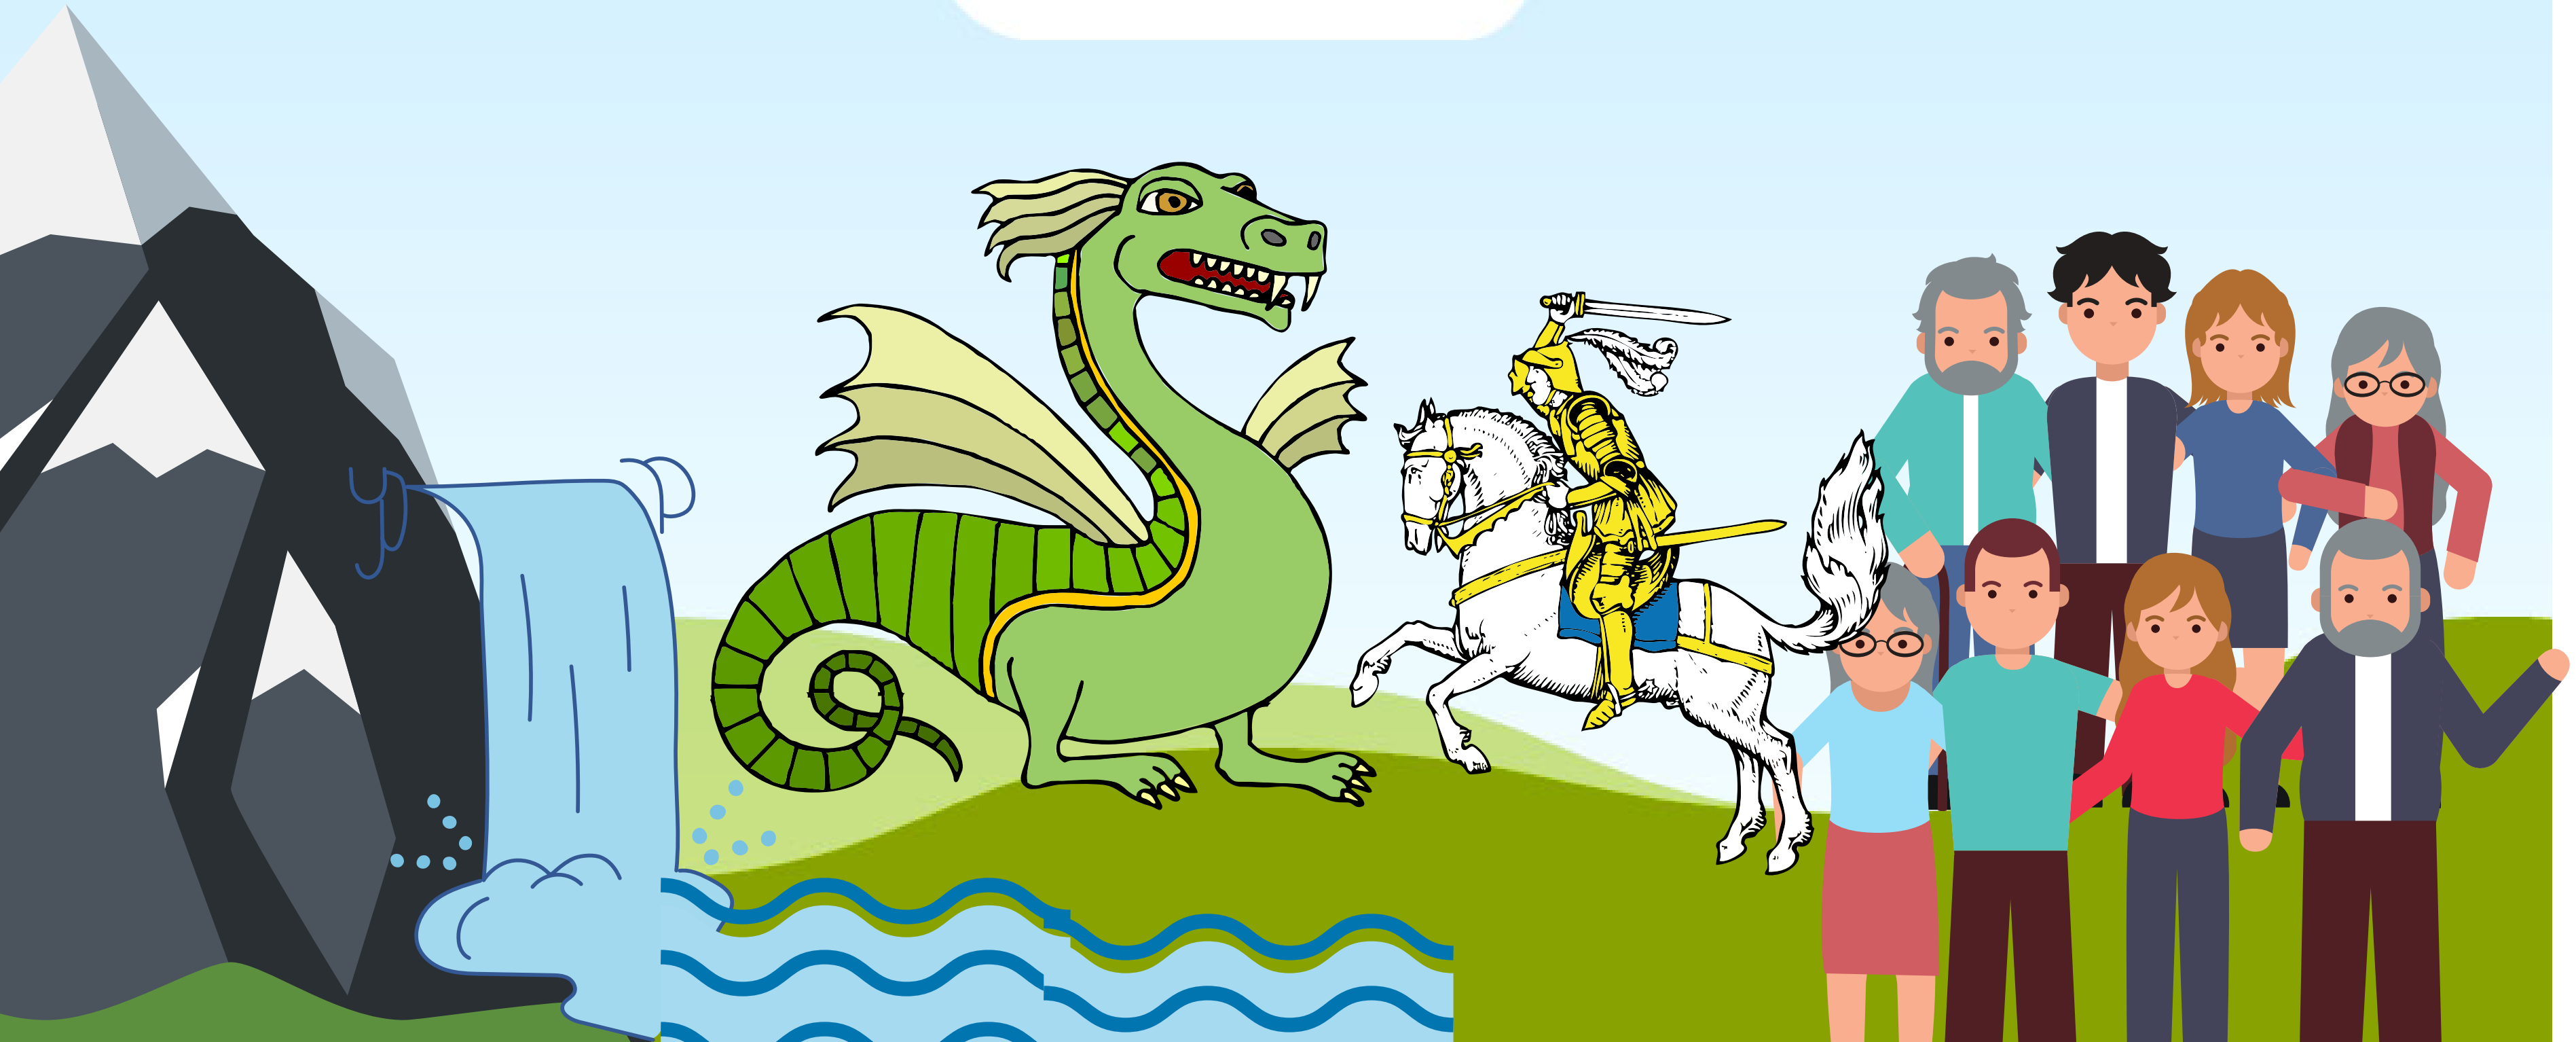

The people had to make sacrifices to the dragon, but the dragon was very fussy and was not satisfied with animals. It wants to get one person to eat every day.

I don't like animals. I want people.

At one day, the princess got drawn. When the time came, the girl was already prepared to sacrifice, and then Saint George suddenly appeared at the waterhole.

The dragon was killed and the princess survived.
Then Saint George left town and went to save other people.

